TRIBUNE TWINKLES.

ANNA DICKINSON has just celebrated her 21st birthday.

A fast horse in Kentucky is named "Two-Bits." Of course he is a quarter horse.

NEW JERSEY girls amuse themselves by playing leap frog. They also amuse the lookers on.

It is said that Logan understands Greek. He is now assiduously studying English and hopes to master it in time.

A TEXAS minister has left the pulpit to go to the legislature, but this is not looked upon as much of a fall in that state.

ENTERPRISE and progress hold the boards in Colorado. Ex Senator Tabor has ordered new rollers for his distinguished night-shirt.

FOUR Springfield, Ohio, boys ran off Sunday to hunt Indians and have not been seen since. The war department has been notified.

A TERRITORIAL exchange says: "There will be a battle about this office in a few days." Has Dakota secured a female editor at last?

PORTRAITS of the late Duke of Albany show that he parted his hair in the middle. This will go far toward assuaging the grief of this country.

SINCE the Laker trouble, several fashionable clubs in New York refuse to dance the German. The affair is proving a blessing to this country after all.

A CHICAGO man has just died of humor on the lungs. He was probably rash enough to wear a copy of Carl Pretzel's Weekly for a lung pad.

MARATHON INDEPENDENT: A new book is entitled "What Can a Woman Do?" An answer to the question can be found by asking most any baldheaded man.

FULL many an overflowing soup tureen has painted pictures on a man's breast; Full many a can of deadly kerosene Has blown a servant to eternal rest.

OSMAN DIGNA is telling his followers that he possesses the power of rendering English bullets harmless. He does it by avoiding the locality which they frequent.

A NEWSPAPER writer asks why it is that congressmen all wear a tired look. They are probably worn out with the load of responsibility which they are obliged to carry.

HAWKEYE: "No, Laura; no. They do not open the campaign with a can opener. They do it with a corkscrew. How, little, alas, do women know about politics."

A VIRGINIA girl married a tramp who turned out to be an English duke in disguise. The poor girl is almost heart broken and has the sympathy of every one in her affliction.

SAMUEL J. TILDEN was seen buying a box of corn plaster last Monday. Is Watterson's glowing picture of his rosy health then but a campaign lie? Out upon such base trickery!

DEAR HARRY jumped at my suggestion, That we to matrimony drop; I took last night to pop the question— I'll take to-night to question pop, Salem Sunbeam.

ELLA DANGER is the belle of a Wisconsin town, and that very town is braving over the possession of the bravest young men in the universe. Every one of them is anxious and eager to court Danger.

There is a sweet soldier named Sherman, Whom each kissing maiden calls her man; For his old heart is soft, And he oscillates oft, With the swiftness and skill of a Hermann.

—New York Journal.

An old colored woman who has just died claimed that she used to sit in George Washington's lap. How fortunate for George's reputation for truthfulness that no one ever questioned him about such things as this.

COL. GEORGE L. PERKINS, of Norwich, Conn., who is ninety-six years old, said in a recent interview: "I have buried six family physicians, and still live." Perhaps the old fox took an unfair advantage of them and didn't take their medicines.

A BOSTON paper tells of an unhung villain who caught two cats, tied them by the tails, and flung them into the cellar of a church. They kept pretty quiet until about the middle of the sermon, when they began to complain, and the pastor sternly remarked, "Will the choir please wait until its services are required?"

THESE girls are all a wicked show For man's delusion given, Their smiles of joy and tears of woe, Deceitful shine, deceitful flow, Not one is true in seven. They love you for a little while, And tell you naught shall sunder Two loving hearts, then full of guile, But others with their witching smile, And you may go to thunder.

Probably a Victim.

THIS is the way a married editor in the frank and candid circles of the eastern newspaper field tells it: "Why didn't I go to her assistance?" said the man who had lain in bed while his wife laid out a burglar. "Young man, I've had a number of tussles with the old gal, and I know that burglar had trouble enough without my giving him any."

SAID I to Chrissie "Kiss me Chris," But with indignant emphasis She said she couldn't.

'Twas plain my method was remis, So then I boldly stole a kiss— For wait I wouldn't.

That she did not take amiss, And no complaint she made, but this, "Oh, Hal—you shouldn't."

THE WASHINGTON BUDGET.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—It was agreed when the senate adjourned today that it would be till Monday next. The chair laid before the senate a communication from the secretary of the treasury urging the necessity for a new revenue cruiser in the Alaskan waters, and recommending the appropriation of $175,000 for that purpose. Miller, of California, presented as a memorial the joint resolution of the legislature of California, urging the adoption by congress of the bill introduced by Sumner in the house relating to the postal telegraph. Wilson, from the committee on postoffices and postroads, reported an amendment to the postoffice appropriation bill, to take the place of the bill referred; that the committee intended to provide for the settlement of postmasters' salaries under the act of March 3, 1883. Bills introduced and referred: By Platt, by request, for the better protection of the citizens in their rights and property, and to punish infringement of patents. Bowen, to protect employees of railroads engaged in interstate commerce. The committee on postoffices and postroads reported favorably the original bill for a postal telegraph system. The naval bill was debated again, and the inevitable controversy over the conduct of the secretary of the navy arose.

HOUSE.

A resolution was introduced instructing the committee on commerce to investigate the alleged evils attending the transportation of cattle. After a long struggle the house voted, instead of considering the Oregon land grant bill, which was in the order of unfinished business, to go into committee of the whole on public building bills. The house considered the bills for the erection of buildings at Keokuk, Iowa, and Waco, Texas, and a bitter personal controversy was waged between Messrs. Mills of Texas, and Backner of Missouri, democratic members. No final action was taken and the house took a recess until to-morrow morning.

STAR ROUTE MATTERS.

P. H. Woodward, of the post-office department was examined by the Springer committee today in relation to the alleged star route frauds. He described the interview at the White House between President Garfield and Postmaster General James and himself, as stated by James in his testimony before the committee, and continued: "Shortly after the engagement with W. M. A. Cook, as special counsel in the cases, I received a summons from President Garfield to be at the White House at the designated hour. Without much preface he said that he had sent for me to ask if I could obtain information as to how the appointment came to be made. That day, before a Judge of the supreme court, I informed him that Cook was the most disreputable man in Washington, and the selection was a disgrace to the administration."

MINNEAPOLIS AND ABERDEEN.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The postmaster general has ordered the Minneapolis and Millbank Dakota, mail route to be extended to Aberdeen Dakota and to be known as the Minneapolis and Aberdeen route.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Hill, from the committee on postoffices and postroads, reported favorably the original bill to establish a postal telegraphic system. Hill remarked that the committee were unanimous as to first clauses of the bill, which relate to doing the work by contracts with existing companies. The provision relating to the liability of the contracting company for failure to correctly and promptly transmit messages has been amended by limiting such liability to 500 times the amount paid for transmission. Two new features have been added to the bill; first, authorizing the contracting company to employ a postmaster as its agent and operator at any postal telegraph office where the telegraphic receipts are insufficient to pay the salary of an operator, and to pay him a commission of not over 50 per cent. of the charges on messages transmitted from such office. Second, it requires the postmaster general to secure provisions in the contract which shall protect postal telegrams against discrimination in the order of transmission in favor of telegrams received at such of the company's offices as are not operated under the provisions of the bill. The contract system remains the most prominent feature of the bill and is not widely different from the scheme of the postal telegraph company, except it empowers the postmaster general to receive bids from any telegraph company for collection. The provisions relating to the establishment of a government system, pure and simple, in the event that no satisfactory contract with the companies is secured, are features of the Hill and Edmunds bill. The senate then resumed consideration of the naval appropriation bill, and Vest continued his remarks.

Pennell and Jones.

ST. PAUL, April 10.—Joseph Pennell and T. J. Jones are here today. Mr. Jones had an interview with some of the Northern Pacific officials in reference to the Medora & Black Hills freight route. It appears that an unpleasant ness has grown up among the members of the transportation company, and that Jones has a wicked partner who secured the contracts while Jones put in his time repairing the road from Medora to Deadwood and arranging for transportation. Having performed that part of the work, he returned to find his partner had made other arrangements of a tendency to utilize the work and leave Jones out in the cold. The wicked partner was working to get $4,000 from the town of Dickinson to haul freight from that point. The mission of the partners in St. Paul today was to induce the Northern Pacific to take a hand in the fight, but the gentlemen were informed that the company fulfilled its mission when it deposited freight at the station, and had no desire to take a hand in the complications extending beyond that point.

The Cannon Falls Road.

ST. PAUL, April 10.—The Cannon Falls road which runs nearly parallel with the Minneapolis & St. Louis to Northfield, and which enters Lake Pepin near the head of the lake, has had surveys out to find a route of easy access to Eau Claire and Chippewa Falls. A plan was projected to cross the river at Red Wing above Lake Pepin and take a southeasterly course to the two named cities, but it is now found that there will be too great an amount of work to cut through the rocky bluff along the Mississippi river to enter the country. A new plan is on foot, which will probably be carried out. After crossing the river at Red Wing the road will run down the side of the Mississippi to where the Chippewa river empties into it, and then along the Chippewa-bank to Eau Claire. As soon as the surveys have the road marked out the company will commence action. When the road is in running order the company will be on an even footing with the Northwestern road. The principal business will be the shipping of lumber, of which the country round about Eau Claire and Chippewa Falls is well supplied.

$1,000 a Side.

DETROIT, Mich., April 10.—The second wrestling match came off tonight in this city between Ross, of Cleveland, and McLaughlin, of this city. There was a big attendance. The match was for $1,000 a side and the receipts of the house. There were two falls collar and elbow, two side hold, one catch-as-catch-can. The first bout, collar and elbow, lasted seven minutes; won by McLaughlin; second, side hold, four minutes; Ross; third, collar and elbow, two minutes; McLaughlin; fourth, side hold, one minute; Ross; fifth, catch-as-catch-can, eight minutes; McLaughlin. At the conclusion of the match McLaughlin challenged the Japanese athlete, Matsada Sarakichi, who came up with the Cleveland party, but insisted on wrestling without jackets. Nothing came of it, however, McLaughlin insisting on jackets.

Fatal Quarrel.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 10.—Thos. Vedder and N. B. Pierceson, brothers-in-law, drove to Goat Island yesterday, and not returning search was made this morning. Pierceson's body was found on Luna island shot through the head. The horse and buggy were tied to a tree. Vedder's clothes were discovered lying on the ice, but no trace of him was found. It is supposed that the men quarreled and that Vedder shot Pierceson, afterwards committing suicide by jumping into the rapids. Both were respectable citizens.

Winona Alma & Northern.

ST. PAUL, April 10.—Notwithstanding the reports to the contrary, work on the Winona Alma & Northern is progressing rapidly. A large number of laborers are at work grading, and have got the road ready for rail-laying from Fountain City, Wis., to Lake Pepin, Minn. The road will not strike the town of Pepin, but will be about two miles east, and will strike Chippewa river about five miles from its mouth.

Double Murder.

MATTOON, ILL., April 10.—A double murder was committed near Reardon, Calais county, last night, an aged couple named Fleetwood being the victims. They were found in their beds this morning with their throats cut. No trace of the perpetrators has yet been discovered, and no cause can be assigned for the crime unless that of robbery.

Dakota Mining Co.

ST. PAUL, April 10.—The bylaws of the Dakota Gold & Silver Mining company was received by the secretary of state this forenoon, for registration. The company will issue 600,000 shares at $2 per share. The board of directors will meet annually at Duluth on the first Monday of April.

N. P. Earnings.

ST. PAUL, April 10.—The earnings of the Northern Pacific for the first week in April were $317,600. An increase of $152,500 over the corresponding week of last year.

Steamship Rate War.

ST. PAUL, April 9.—A. E. Johnson, general emigrant agent of the northwest, says the outlook is that a steamship rate war is about being inaugurated among all the Atlantic lines. During the past few days sweeping reductions have been made. Heretofore the lowest steerage rate between Scandinavian, German and American ports has been from $30 to $32. The cut rate is now $25. The steerage rate to and from British ports, which has been $23, is now $20. One peculiarity about this cut is that while rates have been reduced the agents' commissions have been raised, showing an intent to make the competition sharp and determined. In some cases it is intimated that German rates have been offered as low as $14, and doubtless $12 would not be refused. Last year the North German Lloyd steamers carried 80,000 passengers, while other lines did proportionately well. The present season has shown no indications of a falling off in passenger lists. Cabin passage and freight rates still hold to former figures, but it is thought if the storage war keeps up these will also be affected. This rate war cannot fail to increase immigration, and is therefore of special interest to the northwest.

The Sharon Divorce Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 9.—The court room during the trial of the Sharon divorce case today was a scene of great commotion. Mrs. Shawan, a witness for the defense, was on the stand. Judge Tyler, attorney for Miss Hill, was subjecting her to a severe cross examination. He said that he proposed to show that the witness had dined in disreputable places and visited assignation houses with a strange man. Mrs. Shawan manifested intense excitement and hurriedly put her hand into her pocket as if to draw a revolver, but was checked by the counsel for the defense, who implored her to keep cool. During the excitement which prevailed, McCune Shawan, 22 years of age, and a son of the witness, approached Judge Tyler, but was stopped by the latter's son, who threatened to shoot him down if he attempted to draw a pistol. Judge Sullivan ordered the witness and her son removed from the court, and immediately after declared a recess. At the opening of the afternoon session the judge refused to hear any further testimony in the case until assured that no one in the court room was armed, and would require a policeman at the entrance of the door.

Railroad Extension.

ST. PAUL, April 9.—The Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern are building from Spirit Lake, Iowa, to Elkton, Dakota, crossing the Chicago, St. Paul & Omaha road at Sibley and Laverne, and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul at Pipestone, connecting with the Chicago & Northwestern at Elkton. The contract provides that the line shall be finished from Sibley to Laverne by August 1st; from Laverne to Pipestone by September 1st, and from Pipestone to Elkton by October 1st. A contract is about to be let for the extension of the Black Hills line of this road from Woodstock, Minn., west to Pipestone, connecting the road with the Southern Minnesota division of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road. It is the intention to have this done by the first of July.

Murder at Mitchell, D. T.

MITCHELL, Dak., April 9.—J. T. Pierce, city marshal, was murdered in cold blood this morning by Hank Lewis, a sejourner. Pierce was unarmed, and had been called with a posse of men to the assistance of Louis Ellers, a night watchman. Ellers had previously attempted to arrest Lewis, but was deterred by W. A. Sherwin of the Mitchell Mail. Lewis kept a low dive and has been engaged in several shooting affrays. Pierce was a good citizen and quiet and inoffensive. Lewis is in jail, and Sherwin is under $500 bail to await the action of the grand jury. The coroner's jury returned a verdict which makes a clear case of premeditated murder. Great excitement prevailed, and fears of mob violence were entertained this morning, but it has now quieted down.

Cincinnati Grand Jury.

CINCINNATI, April 9.—A special grand jury was impaneled this morning within less time than is usually required. The list of names of men summoned was composed entirely of leading business men of the city. Nearly all responded and very few asked to be excused. Three had military certificates in their pocket which entitled them to exemption, but would not present them. Instructions will be given to this jury next Monday. Meantime the judges are in consultation on the subject. It is understood the jury will be charged with the most important duty of investigating the facts concerning the late riot and burning of the court house, including charges of bribery of the jury that convicted Berner.

Faulk County Investigation.

YANKEETON, April 9.—The city is full of witnesses subpoenaed before the grand jury. The charges of corruption in the organization of Faulk county are being investigated. W. B.

Tellybit, of Pierre, the principal witness in the case, and the person named as grantee in the deeds to the Faulk county property given for the location of the county seat, has fled and the officers are unable to find him. It is not known that anything has been done in the capital commission matter.

Sherman, governor of Iowa, restraining him from conveying unperfected lands of the company to the general government in accordance with an act of the legislature at its recent session. It is understood that the case will be transferred from the district to the federal court.

The Defaulting Cashier.

CHICAGO, April 9.—The Daily News, Monmouth, Ill., special says The bank examiners are busy upon the books of the First National bank. There are many rumors regarding the amount for which its cashier has defaulted, ranging from $300,000 to $500,000. Depositors will not receive more than fifty cents on the dollar, and the books have been falsified. There are many poor depositors who have nothing to show for their money.

The Blaine Boom.

BEAVER, Penn., April 9.—The republican convention of the Twenty-fourth congressional district, comprising Washington, Lawrence and Beaver counties, met this afternoon and elected E. F. Achison and J. W. Wallace delegates to the national convention. Strong resolutions endorsing Blaine were adopted, and the delegates instructed to support him for president.

The Pocahontas Mine.

LYNCHBURG, Va., April 9.—The entrance to the Pocahontas coal mine was opened today by experienced miners, and will be ready for operations tomorrow, when the bodies of the victims will be recovered. Several bodies were seen today upon opening the entrances. An order was sent here for thirty-six coffins.

Another Burglary.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 9.—The Adams express office at Allegheny City was burglarized at an early hour this morning and the contents of packages valued at $1,000 taken. The thieves made a bold attempt to blow open the safe, but were surprised by the watchman.

Stricken with Paralysis.

LA CROSSE, Wis., April 9.—Mr. H. C. Atkins, assistant general manager of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, was stricken with paralysis here at 1 o'clock. The physicians say there is no immediate imminent danger.

The Trail County Seat.

Blaine Delegates.

CORNING, N. Y., April 9.—The 28th congressional district will send two Blaine delegates to the Chicago convention.

A Wild-e Liar.

Mr. Charles Krauth, of Knife river, one of the leading Germans of the Missouri slope, sends the following spicy letter to the TRIBUNE, with reference to a communication to German papers written by one Anton Wilde, who, by his unreasonableness and reckless falsehoods, proves himself to be the wildest and most skittish liar in the northwest. The question is, does Mr. Wilde still live in Bismarck? If so, he should be dragged from his secluded lair and branded as a vile defamer of the city and territory. This is what Mr. Krauth has to say:

EDITORS TRIBUNE: By friends in Germany I was notified that a certain Anton Wilde of your city, sent out a letter to the "Berlin Boisen Courier," a prominent paper in Germany, in which he takes occasion to cast slurs upon this country and Bismarck. This letter was copied in many other papers of the German empire. I have a copy of the letter, which is full of lies. Wilde claims that merchants take four hundred per cent on goods which people need every day; that cattle die in the stables if farmers do not heat the stables; that people have nothing to eat; that they starve and freeze to death; that coal and firewood are too high on account of high freight; that there is no work for laboring men in Bismarck, etc., etc., etc., and to make a long story short, it is a scandalous letter and the writer deserves to be criticised in your paper for his lies. He seems to be a "green-horn," but is a crank nevertheless.

I have written a letter to Germany to be published in the papers which copied Wilde's letter. His communication was dated December 28th, 1883, and it is likely he is at Bismarck yet.

Please send me some of your illustrated edition. I would like to send them to the papers that copied Wilde's letter.

Respectfully yours, CHARLES KRAUTH, Knife River, D. T.

Mr. Krauth shall have copies of the illustrated edition of the TRIBUNE to send to Germany, although the falsehoods of this poor Wilde man are too glaringly silly to need a reply. The hundreds of intelligent Germans who are arriving in Bismarck, and finding happy homes in the rich Missouri slope, are the best and most lasting refutation of their cranky countryman's libelous effusion that can be made.

Easter Decorations.

The rector of the Episcopal church requests that all ladies who desire to furnish house plants and flowers for the decoration of the church for Easter services will have them taken to the church on Saturday afternoon, so that they may be properly arranged. It is desired to beautifully decorate the church for the occasion, and to this end it is hoped that the ladies will use their efforts to secure as many floral ornaments as possible.

The Bismarck Tribune.

The Jamestown Alert takes occasion to read us a temperance lecture on the death of the Duke of Albany. It says:

"It turns out that the death of the Duke of Albany was the result of a debauch rather than the natural course and end of life wherein we take some consolation in the thought that 'the Lord gave and the Lord taketh away.' If he had been other than Queen Victoria's son the true cause of his death would doubtless have been given with the first notice of it. The medical term apoplexy is applied in such social stations of life as that occupied by Prince Leopold when under similar diagnostic circumstances with a common man, or one in ordinary social position, it would be called delirium tremens. The facts seem to be now well authenticated that the duke had been on a roaring drunk and debauch so recently as to not only connect that circumstance with his death but to very conclusively show that death was the end of the spree. The mantle of charity is generously allowed to fall over persons who die from such causes on account of the social or perhaps official position occupied by the deceased as well as the social standing of their families and near relations. The consequence is the deadly work of this 'monster of hideous men' is known only to the immediate personal acquaintances of individual cases. It is true that the duke was only an ordinary man intellectually, and a very ordinary one at that, but his social prominence, which came of his relation to the throne of England, was sufficient to hide from the public, for the time at least, the real cause of his death. It is a lamentable but suppressed fact that some of the brightest intellectual lights of our own country as well as of Europe have gone out in the utter darkness of the wreck and ruin of dissipation, which is only too sad and deplorable an evidence that a great brain and profound mind even cannot withstand indulgence of the insidious foe that lures on by imperceptible tread to ruin and to death."

The gentle girl now goes seldom to the theatre without a bouquet on her breast, says a New York letter. The sentimental suggestion is that poses naturally grow there; which is all very pretty as an idea to instill into the susceptible mind of the escort, but when the whole bodice isn't big enough to hold ground for a single violet, to say nothing of a half bushel of roses, the probabilities are awfully strained. Secondly, again, and moreover, there is to the unreasoning male observer an instinctiveness of life in the floral formation, that is extremely fetching. At each placid breath the top of the bouquet slightly waves to and fro as though swung by a zephyr; when she sighs, it quivers in tremulous sympathy; her giggles set it shaking with fragrant jollity, her laughter puts it into a violent spasmodic of merriment. The poor fellow is entranced by these rosy demonstrations of acute sensibility while at the same time enchanted by her own lady-like composure. If he had any cool sense, or memory of what he learned at school about mechanical movements, he could discern the deceptiveness of that bunch of roses. It is no reflection upon the girl's anatomy to remind him that her slim body would have to contract St. Vitus' dance, or some other nervous disorder, if the flowers' motions were precisely a counter-part of the heavings of her bosom. As a matter of fact she merely provides the hub—the axis, so to speak—while the stems represent the spokes, and the roses are at the rim, or periphery. Don't you easily enough comprehend that, under these conditions, she need only to take a deep breath, or wiggle slightly, to impart the liveliest motion to the end of the bouquet? Ah! the corsage bouquet is subtle but quite explainable.

HENRY WARD BEECHER took occasion, in his last Thanksgiving Day service, to give a brilliant and most interesting account of his lecture tour of last summer, which he called "A Circuit of the Continent." "Leaving home July 9," he says, "I followed the sickle. The harvest of wheat was closed in Ohio and was beginning in Wisconsin. Our line of travel carried us through the great wheat belt of the country, and it is one of the marvels of the world." Then he sets out to describe, in his own original and striking manner, his trip through thirty states and territories, including the Red river region of Canada, the great wheat states of our northwest, the cattle ranges and sheep farms of the plains, the vast lumber country and agricultural valleys of Washington, Oregon and California, Utah and the Mormons, Texas and the chief cities of the South. The address was found to be so full of interest that it has been called for and delivered at intervals through the winter, especially in New England, and once in the Brooklyn Academy of Music for the benefit of the "Home for Consumptives," a new and admirable charity of that city. It has now been published (by Fords, Howard & Hulbert, New York) in aid of that institution, and contains a capital engraving portrait of "the old man eloquent." It can be had through any bookseller, or will be mailed on receipt of the price (ten cents) by the publishers. An address by so great a master of the descriptive art, and appealing to so widespread an interest, ought to set something handsome for the Brooklyn charity.

ORDWAY TRIBUNE: To persons starting for a new country it is often a source of perplexity as to what they shall take with them. To all such our advice would be bring your household goods. The freight is but little and new goods cost money. Bring your young cattle. The growth of ten head of young cattle will almost buy your provisions during the first year, and it will cost but little to keep them. Bring your cows. A good cow is half a living, and cows are high here and butter is high. Bring your hens. Eggs have not been less than fifteen cents a dozen here in a year, and 100 hens will go a long way towards supporting a family. Finally sell your horses and buy oxen. The first work to be done on your farm will be breaking the sod, and for this purpose oxen are fully as good as horses while the expense of keeping them is not one-tenth as much.

JAMES GORDON BENNETT, of England, is coming to America on a brief visit next month. He is probably in search of data for a book.

A VERMONT paper says: "A Dakota lawyer was recently arrested for stealing wood, but such was the power of his eloquence that he made the jury believe that he was only walking in his sleep, and thought that he was placing flowers on the grave of his first wife." There! There! dear legal friends, don't get angry. Remember the slander comes from a Vermont paper.

NO MORE FREE PUFFS.

The Charleston Herald has established the following rates for puffs:

To call a man a "progressive citizen," when it is known that he is lazier than a government mule, $1.70.

Referring to a deceased citizen as "a man whose place will long remain unfilled," when you know that he was the best poker player in town, $2.17.

Calling a female a "talented and refined lady, available acquisition to society," with variations, $2.75.

Calling a man a "liar" during a campaign to advertise him, 25 cents, with proportionate reduction if the fight becomes warm.

Referring to an old citizen as "a relic of antiquity," 65 cents.

Calling a newly made lawyer "a legal light of which the profession should feel proud," $1.25.

Extra rates are charged when the party is well known, as it takes more to counteract the influence a long residence is supposed to exert.

Parties furnishing their own notices stereotyped, 13 pica ems wide, ready for use, can have 50 per cent reduction on above rates.

Candidates for office will be charged in proportion to their wealth, as a guaranty that their promises to their constituency will be fulfilled. We usually require that their first year's salary be left with us as a guaranty of good faith only.

WALT WHITMAN sadly sings: Mary had some roller skates that never would go slow, and in the way the skates would roll Mary wasn't sure to go; she took them to the rink one night, and struck out from the knee, but when poor Mary would go haw, the skates they would go gee; and when the skates would forward go, Mary couldn't hold the slack; the skates went on and Mary fell right flat upon her back; and when the skates would backward go, she couldn't keep her toes, the skates went back and Mary fell kerslash upon her nose; and when one skate went to the right, the other to the left, poor Mary couldn't follow both, and some thought she was cleft; at last the evening's fun was over, they stopped the giddy whirl, and Mary went home from the rink a badly banged up girl.

THE Fall River Advance says: "If there is anything madder than a wet hen it is a woman who spends an hour in neatly opening a suspicious billet doux sort of a letter to her husband, only to find that it is a bill from his tailor." ## THE WASHINGTON BUDGET.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The first bill taken up was one to authorize the appointment of a commission by the president to run and mark the boundary lines between a portion of the Indian territory and the state of Texas, in connection with a similar commission to be appointed by the state of Texas. After debate the committee rose and the bill passed: Yeas 138, nays, 67. The next bill passed was one declaring that the supreme court of every territory shall consist of a chief justice and three associate justices, and providing that every territory shall be divided into four judicial districts and the district court shall be held in each by one of the justices of the supreme court.

A bill requiring the governor of a territory to be a resident of the territory to which he is appointed at least two years preceding his appointment was opposed by Kasson. Maginnis strongly advocated the passage of the bill. There was a growing indisposition to admit new states on account of the jealousy of all states, and this measure was only intended to mitigate one of the evils of the most infamous systems of colonial government the world had ever seen. Eaton raised a constitutional objection that the bill would limit the right of presidential appointment. Brentz, of Washington Territory, pointed out the inconsistency of allowing Rhode Island to elect its governor and denying the territories, some of them with five times the population, the poor privilege of having their executive appointed from among their own citizens. Tillman, of South Carolina, made a constitutional argument in support of the bill and sarcastically expressed his joy that the gentlemen on the other side, alluding to Hiscock and others, had at length come to recognize the fact that the obsolete instrument, the constitution, still somewhat restricted the powers of congress, but admitted that his joy was shadowed when he discovered that the constitutional point was raised on the wrong bill. Advocating the measure on its merits, he regretted that he did not have time to pay his respects to the carpet baggers. Bram, of Pennsylvania, objected to the term carpet bagger being applied to any American citizen, and said he would be sorry to apply that term to the gentleman from South Carolina if in the course of events he should ever be appointed governor of a territory. Tillman explained what southern people meant by "carpet bagger." They meant a stranger who came among them to get office and nothing but office, who prostituted office for personal gain, and who, when he could no longer rob and oppress, then gathered up his carpet bag and went as he came. Anybody who came in as kith and kin of the people and to take part and fare with them was not a carpet bagger, and would be welcomed. Hart moved to recommit the bill with instructions to the committee on territories, to except from its provisions the territory of Utah. "There are just as good gentiles in Utah as out of it," suggested Maginnis in opposition to the measure. The motion was lost, 72 yeas to 128 nays, and the bill passed.

CAN'T AGREE.

The republican district convention, for the nomination of delegates to the Chicago convention has been in session all day, and at this hour, 1:30 a.m., have not succeeded in agreeing upon any one to represent the district. Oates, Van Eaton and Strait voted against the report. Belford was not present. Delegate Brent will offer a substitute for the bill agreed upon by a majority of the committee when it is brought up for consideration in the house. The substitute declares forfeited those lands granted the Northern Pacific railway lying contiguous with and adjacent to that part of the proposed line between Wallula, Washington territory, and Portland, Oregon, for a breach of the conditions on which they were granted. All the rest of the lands granted the company are confirmed to it on condition that it shall comply with all the requirements of this act. The company shall henceforth construct not less than 100 miles of its railroad each year, and complete and equip the whole by July 4th, 1886, except that portion between Wallula and Portland. All lands confirmed to the company shall be subject to assessment and taxation by state, territory, county or municipality. All agricultural lands so confirmed, which were not sold before January 1st, 1885, shall be sold by the company only to citizens of the United States in quantities not exceeding 160 acres to any one person, and at a price not exceeding $2.60 per acre. The substitute forbids discriminatory freight charges or pooling arrangement by the company, and provides that maximum passenger fares shall be prescribed by the commissioner of railways.

The Wrecked Steamer.

HALIFAX, April 8.—Three wrecking schooners are taking out the cargo of the wrecked steamer Steinmann. Divers report the steamer upright and the deck houses in place, but the hull shows signs of going to pieces. The divers have not yet entered the cabins. No bodies have yet been seen in the vessel. It is the opinion of many acquainted with the coast that most of the bodies outside the vessel would be carried to sea by the under-tow. The surviving passengers leave tomorrow for New York. The opinions of seafaring men acquainted with the approaches to the harbor are unfavorable to the commander of the Steinmann regarding the working of the ship on the night of the disaster.

Crow King Dead.

Late advices from Fort Yates are to the effect that Crow King, one of the most prominent chiefs of the Sioux nation died Saturday night of quick consumption contracted from cold on the lungs. Crow King will be remembered as the first to surrender after the Custer massacre, in which he took a very important part. He was an intelligent progressive Indian and loved his band. He died, receiving the rites and sacraments of the catholic church.

BULL VS GALL.

In the Sioux Council at the agency Saturday, a lively discussion took place between Sitting Bull and Gall in which the latter claimed that Sitting Bull was getting too d-d high toned since his recent trip east. He said that it was silly and absurd to lionize Sitting Bull, when it was unanimously voted that he was a mean contemptible coward, fast sinking into local insignificance.

A bitter current of hostility seemed to exist between the two chiefs which is attributed to jealousy. After Gall finished speaking, the agent administered some good advice to the Indians, after which the council adjourned, perfectly satisfied that Major McLaughlin was the right man in the right place.

Is the Reservation Opened.

During the past few days there has been considerable excitement at the Fort Yates agency, caused by the strange maneuverings of H. F. Douglass, his employees and the high military officials of the post, since the return of Mr. Douglas from Washington. The men referred to have been staking out a townsite on the east bank of the river, opposite the post. It is believed by many that the government reserve has been thrown open to settlement, and Mr. Douglas, bringing the papers from Washington, has taken advantage of the situation and with these few friends he is endeavoring to secure the townsite opposite the agency. If the reservation has been thrown open to settlement the agent should have promulgated the fact, but instead, the "ins" have entered into a scheme to "gobble" the whole beautiful bottom. The matter has been kept a profound secret, the government and other boats have been taken across the river, and none but those in the scheme, allowed to cross.

This report comes from Fort Yates and will be confirmed or contradicted by later advices.

AN inquirer asks the Philadelphia Call: "I know that on the stage a plain woman with a good figure, or a pretty face with an awkward figure can get along; but what can a plain woman with a bad figure do to make a mark in the world?" The querist's name is not given, but the cold, cruel finger of suspicion is pointed at Anna Dickinson.

O white-armed, red-lipped daughter of dreams! Filled with a joy that is past all knowing, Spring from the winter with bloom that seems New built with the cold embrace of the snowing; Look into mine with thy brown warm eyes, And speak with the voice of a seer who knows: Tell me, oh, tell me, divinely wise! Whither, ah, whither shall come my spring clothes? —W. J. Henderson, in Puck.

A MAN was found dead about ten miles south of Bismarck last week, with a copy of the Call's "Accidentally Overheard" clenched tightly in his nerveless fingers. A broad grin was on his face and his garments were entirely buttonless. Welch is a personal friend of ours, or we'd write something about this remarkable case, and tell the public what the coroner's jury said.

The Bismarck Tribune.

A New Scheme for Bismarck.

Never in the history of the capital city were her prospects for an overwhelming, crowding, jostling boom, brighter than to-day. There have been many schemes devised and numerous suggestions made by which the ultimate and speedily secured greatness and eternal fame of the city might be secured, but the most reasonable and convincing of all schemes is that concocted by and conceived in the brain of Mr. J. C. Whitcomb, of New York, well-known as the father of the elevated street railway of the national metropolis, inventor of the electric motor, and owner of the famous "market exchange" of Venice. He arrived in Bismarck a few days since, and after riding about the city in a carriage with one of the leading citizens, whose guest he has been since his arrival, gazing upon the capitol, "viewing the landscape over," and crossing the great iron bridge, he assures the people of Bismarck and vicinity that he is willing to expend at least in an enterprise which cannot fail to make this the largest and grandest city west of Chicago in less than five years. He is a man of brains, and a capitalist of note, and aware of the future commercial and social greatness of the proud, banner-bedecked capital city of Dakota. To a TRIBUNE reporter last evening he explained the enterprise which he desired to establish here, and which would secure for Bismarck fame and wealth. It is follows: With $1,000,000 he could cut a canal through the bluff northwest of the city and thus conduct a large amount of water from the Missouri, and after carrying it a half a mile, pour it back into the Big Muddy. By damming the canal, which would have high banks on either side, he could have an inexhaustible water power and here in the midst of the land of No. 1 hard, where golden grain is king, he would erect mills beside which the Minneapolis flouring machines would be but pigmies. Then he would advertise the fact that Frank Frisby has the finest drug store on the line of the Northern Pacific road, and by building a centering in Bismarck, he would conduct all the invalids in the Union to Mr. Frisby's store, where they could receive a second lease of life, buy pure drugs, forsake their canes and crutches and go forth proclaiming to all the world that Mr. Frisby was a square-dealing druggist and a gentleman, whose medicines are always unadulterated, and whose corn remover and lung balsam never fail to cure. These invalids would eat the flour. "See!" Great scheme.

ONE MILLION DOLLARS

SYSTEM OF RAILROADS

The Social Evil.

There is a young gentleman in Bismarck whose social position at present is not only unenviable, but extremely dangerous. He is living with the wife of a Northern Pacific fireman, who is running into Bismarck. The fireman whose name is at present suppressed, formerly lived with his wife in Minneapolis, from which place he removed to Mandan. The woman proved to be one of the easily led free-love stripe, and becoming enamored with the Bismarck gentleman, finally consented to live with him and forsook the man who was laboring diligently to secure a little home for himself and family. He is now without wife home or "family" and swears vengeance on the Bismarckian who has usurped the sacred throne of husband and prospective father. From friends of the fireman it is learned that he is desperate in his determination to wreak vengeance and the criminal gentleman will do well to seek a more congenial clime or secure a speedy compromise with the lawful husband. The fireman is now out on his rim and says that his next trip to Bismarck will be for blood.

The Penitentiary.

Contractor Megan is now at work on the penitentiary with a force of carpenters and he will begin to lay brick about the 15th inst., as by that time they will be here from Sims, where they are now being burned. Mr. Megan paid a large freight bill for the iron and cornice which is now in the Bismarck yard, and everything will be in readiness for utilization as soon as the brick is laid. A feature of the penitentiary building which is worthy of note is the artificial stone used in the trimmings. When the stone was placed in the building last fall many predicted that it would prove a failure, and as soon as the frost thawed in the spring would crumble. Director Dana, of the penitentiary board, drove down to the building Wednesday afternoon and found that the stone was in excellent condition. Instead of crumbling or becoming ageworn, it has hardened with age and is in perfect preservation. This fact was learned with pleasure by the directors of the building, as well as the members of the artificial stone company. When completed, the penitentiary will be a solid, well-arranged and imposing structure.

On the Verge of Eternity.

A few days ago a number of west-bound passengers, who were stopping in the city, on a pleasure frolic visited the capitol, and, not satisfied with climbing all over the interior of the building, determined upon getting out upon the roof to obtain a view of the surrounding country and gaze upon about twenty miles of gorged ice in the Missouri. No sooner had they planted themselves upon the tin roof of the building than a young lady of the party started toward the edge. The wind was blowing a stiff gale at the time, and with the decline of the roof the girl went sailing helplessly along in the direction of the south side of the building. She was within a few feet of the verge when the watchman caught her by the arm and pulled her back to a safe position. In another second she would have been blown over the edge and hurled to the ground nearly a hundred feet below. In visiting the capitol people cannot be too careful.

Odd Fellows' Ball.

The Odd Fellows of Bismarck will give a ball at the Sheridan House on the evening of April 25th. The best of music has been engaged and the members of the great order will give a social party second to none of the season in the way of generous hospitality and refined enjoyment.

The Mandan Shops.

The Northern Pacific shops at Mandan are soon to be put in operation with a limited force of men. As the company has adopted an economical policy and have reduced their forces in nearly every department, the shops will not be operated to their full capacity at the start, but the force will be increased as the business of the road may demand. Mr. Adam Beardsley, who for some time past has been superintendent of "running work" in the Brainerd shops, will be master mechanic of the Mandan shops. He is a mechanic with few superiors, and will conduct the work of the shops in a mechanical, business-like manner.

AN OLD PIONEER'S STATEMENT.

How a Fortune was Spent in Vain—An Eventful Career—Rescued at Last.

[San Francisco Chronicle, June 6, 1893.]

The following communication from Captain W. F. Swasey, the oldest pioneer in San Francisco, a gentleman well known throughout this coast, will be self explanatory:

Editor of the Chronicle—Sir: Anything concerning the history of an old Californian, especially if he is extensively and favorably known throughout the Pacific coast, never fails to attract attention, but when the circumstances attending his career are of such a peculiar character, that a knowledge of them will benefit the public at large, the imparting of such knowledge becomes not only a pleasure, but a duty as well. Therefore, the writer deems the following brief sketch not only eminently proper, but also feels confident that it will prove deeply interesting and beneficial to the thousands who will read it.

Col. D. J. Williamson, the subject of this letter, entered the union army in 1861 as regimental quartermaster of the Fourth California infantry, and in 1863 he was appointed by President Lincoln, captain, quartermaster of the United States army. He served with distinction to himself and honor to the government until 1867, at which time he left the military service and became a prominent operator in stocks in San Francisco. In this business he continued until 1870, when he received from President Grant the appointment of United States consul at Callao, Peru. In 1874 he was appointed by President Grant consul at Valparaiso, Chili, and also charge d'affaires of that republic, which latter position he was compelled by ill health to resign in 1878.

In the winter of 1881-2, a winter that was unusual inclement, while on military duty at Sacramento, Col. Williamson was obliged to sleep in tents, and then first contracted the terrible scourge of rheumatism, from which he at times suffered excruciating pain, although he was not incapacitated from duty. After he had left the service and entered upon business pursuits the disease pertinaciously clung to his system, although he resorted to the most eminent medical advice and to every known remedy for relief. When he arrived in Peru, where rheumatism is very prevalent, the disease assumed a still more virulent type and his suffering became so utterly intolerable that he was obliged to submit to the application of hypodermic injections of morphia, frequently administered as often as twenty-five times in twenty-four hours. He visited the famous baths of that country without avail, and when he reached Chili, resorted to the baths of Coquenes and afterwards to the baths on the summit of the Andes, which latter are celebrated throughout the world for their efficacy in the cure of rheumatism. He still found no relief, however, and in 1878 his knees and lower extremities became so powerless from this disease that he was compelled to resign his position and return to California. He at once repaired to the Paso Robles springs in San Luis Obispo county, where he received but slight temporary relief, the malignant complaint continuing to torture and rack his frame, almost without cessation. From 1878 until within about two months, he has been totally deprived of the use of his lower limbs, being absolutely unable to perform the most simple physical act without assistance. Some six months ago he was induced by his friend, Ferdinand Vassault, Esq., secretary of the California Pioneers, to try St. Jacobs Oil. It is fortunate that he did so, for today, after long years of intense agony and utter prostration, he is able to walk about with comfort and without the aid of either cane or crutches. He has discontinued all medical treatment and the use of all narcotics, and he gratefully and most emphatically attributes this happy result solely to the use of St. Jacobs Oil. The writer of this letter having himself been a sufferer from rheumatism, and having been thoroughly cured by the same remedy, feels impelled by a sense of duty to afflicted humanity, to impart this information to the public.

Yours respectfully,

W. F. SWASEY.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31, 1893.

To Capt. W. F. Swasey, Pioneer Hall, City: Dear Captain: Having carefully read the foregoing, I cheerfully add my unqualified attestation to the truthfulness of the statements contained therein. Of course no language is adequate to convey a realistic sense of the fearful suffering and agony I have passed through in the last eight years, during which time I have expended at least $20,000 for remedies, medical attendance and an enforced residence at different bathing resorts. I cheerfully add this testimony because I feel perfectly certain that a knowledge of my cure by St. Jacobs Oil will prove the means of relieving hundreds of sufferers from the pangs of the dreadful disease alluded to. Confident of being soon again able to resume my former active life, I remain always, Your friend

D. J. WILLIAMSON,

520 Taylor street, San Francisco, Cal.

Send in the Names.

The chamber of commerce is now ready to distribute copies of the boom edition of the TRIBUNE and desires that all parties having extra copies of the paper send the same into the chamber. People are also requested to send in a list of names of parties to whom they desire the paper to be sent as the chamber of commerce is anxious to give the paper as wide a circulation as possible. Three thousand copies have already been mailed by the board and the TRIBUNE has a large number in the office which can be had as soon as the chamber of commerce receives the names of parties east. Don't send a man's name simply because he is a personal friend, but give the address of parties at your former home, who are likely to come west and become identified with the country and its interests.

Give Dr. Price's Special Flavoring Extracts a fair trial, and if they please you, recommend them to your neighbor; if not, return them and have your money refunded, and denounce

LET IT CEASE.

The TRIBUNE learns that a number of Mandan people feel aggrieved at false reports which were sent out regarding the flood and its injury to their town, and intimate that the falsehoods originated in the TRIBUNE office. The idea is a false and erroneous one. Several eastern papers were supplied with specials by the TRIBUNE during the flood, and their files will show that in every instance the danger was pictured as being less than specials from Mandan make it appear. Not one word was ever sent from this city to the effect that the water had reached the streets of Mandan, yet specials from Mandan parties announced that it had flooded the shops and compelled the men to leave their work. The TRIBUNE has ever made it a point to speak well of the town across the river, and has never used language calculated to impede her interests, yet there are parties there who, to serve their own personal ends, have ever made it a practice to endeavor to create an impression that Bismarck people and the TRIBUNE were hostile to Mandan and never miss an opportunity to give it a black eye. This idea is as false as it is foolish. Bismarck has nothing to gain by abusing Mandan, and a canvass of the city to-day will demonstrate the fact that our people will almost as a unit rejoice over every stride made by our sister city toward prosperity. We have become sick and tired of hearing the silly assertions that a feeling of hostility exists on this side of the river. There is an imbecile one, and is laughed at by the thinking people on both sides of the stream. The course taken by the mischief-makers who are eternally harping on this point is well calculated to create a hostile feeling, and perhaps would do so if they came from any reliable and substantial source.

The TRIBUNE entertains toward Mandan and her enterprising citizens none but the kindest feelings, and can vouch for the fact that the same feelings have lodgment in the breasts of a large majority of the Bismarck people. When threatened by the flood, naught but words of sympathy and solicitude could be heard on this side of the river, and when the waters began to subside a feeling of gratification over the escape of our neighbors from all damage permeated every Bismarckian breast.

Regarding the special reports sent out, we here reproduce two which were published in the Dickinson Press. They were sent in response to a request that the true situation be telegraphed:

BISMARCK D. T., March 27, 3 p. m.—The ice moved out of the Missouri river at this point yesterday but has gorged at Sibley Lake, about five miles below the city. At this time the gorge extends to the Bismarck steamboat landing and is very firm, showing no signs of giving way. The gorge caused a rise in the river of five feet, which is now at a stand-still. The ice in the Heart river at Mandan is being broken by dynamite. The greatest danger is approached when the flood, which is expected in two or three days, reaches here. The situation will then be more serious. The boats in the river are safe and temporarily safe, but they will be in great danger when the flood reaches here. Advice from Fort Yates say the ice is moving out nicely at that point to-day.

MANDAN, D. T., March 27.—The ice in the Heart river is being blown out with dynamite. The water is rising and there is danger of the flood doing considerable damage. The gorge in the Heart river caused a rise of the water which compelled the men to leave the railroad shops last night.

A comparison of these two specials will show that the Mandan reporter sent a much more alarming report than was sent from this side of the river. In the weekly issue of the Dickinson Press we find in its local columns an article which purports to be a statement of the situation, and which closes with the words: "Since the above was in type we learn that the Missouri gorge has increased and is flooding Mandan to the depth of four feet." This was never sent from Bismarck, for every one knew it to be false.

The TRIBUNE hopes the silly cry of hostility will cease, and if the thinking people of Mandan have their interests at heart they will endeavor to stop it. It may go too far and create a feeling of hostility that may harm them, much as their friends on this side of the river might endeavor to prevent it. In conclusion the TRIBUNE will say that if it paid attention to the daily malicious slanders hurled at it and Bismarck from certain sources over the river, its columns would be filled daily with nothing but recitations of the malicious but harmless darts. Bismarck entertains no enmity toward Mandan, and our people feel that the citizens of Mandan, with but a very few exceptions, have only the most kindly feelings toward Bismarck.

The Redfield Journal in crying for cheap fuel for southern Dakota says:

"There can be no denying the fact that there are immense coal fields in north-western Dakota. This statement has been verified time and again. The land west of Bismarck is underlaid with rich veins of coal which can be mined with little expense. All that is needed to make fuel much cheaper in central Dakota than it is, is direct railway connection with the Northern Pacific road which runs through the region of these rich coal beds. Rail communication with Bismarck would at once reduce the price of coal in central Dakota. All will hail the day that completes the connection of this section with the great coal fields northwest of us. It is confidently expected that the day is not far distant when these hopes will be fully realized. Redfield expects to have rail communication with Bismarck ere many moons pass away."

COMING TO DAKOTA.

The Dakota Outlook, one of the most intelligent and reliable papers in the territory, says: "If settling in Dakota was to bring misery with it, what a wretched lot of people there will be this year. Already there reach us tidings of the coming thousands. Last year about 125,000 people came to Dakota, and most of them secured land. The crops were everywhere fair, and in some localities finer than those new comers usually saw at home. They became enthusiastic in sounding the praises of Dakota, and their friends at home have caught the fever. They have heard of the rich and exhaustless soil; of the fine crops, of the nutritious cattle ranges; of the beautiful sunshine and clear skies and healthful climate. They have contrasted their situation with the glowing accounts they have heard, and they are ready for a change. They are tired of cultivating rented acres, miasmatic low lands, rocky hillsides and worn out soil. And so they are coming to Dakota. Many of their friends will pity them. They will in some cases lament over them as those that are lost. But the newcomers will be gainers. They will leave behind them many things that are well worth having; they will find something different from what they expected. But they will live longer, enjoy better health and amass a larger property. What more could they desire?"

And so they are coming to Dakota. Not from one state, but from all; not to any one section of Dakota, but to all. Not one here and there, but whole families, and in many cases almost whole neighborhoods. Let them come. Thousands of acres await cultivation, and there is room for all."

From a new book just issued by the Manitoba road the TRIBUNE clips this truthful tribute to the climate of Dakota: "Its climate unites all that is bracing and inspiring. It is a climate of health and vigor, nerving to work and the very audacity of dash. No more robust tribes of Indians than those of Dakota ever chased the huge buffalo over the plains or bearded the grizzly monarch of the mountains in his lair. People who have come here to die of bronchitis and consumption have lived to become glowing embodiments of soundness and strength, with throats like firemen's trumpets and lungs like blacksmiths' bellows. The howling blizzards, of which outside worldlings delight to prate, blow all miasma and contagion from Dakota's favored plains and valleys, and breathe new life into dilapidated nostrils. The enfeebled person from down east, whose wheezy tones scarce suffice to stir the flies that crawl over the bald pates of his dozing elders and deacons, is soon able, not only to keep his hearers awake, but almost to arouse, as with a forty-donkey-power bugle blast, the sheeted sleepers in the church yard; and the frail, ethereal housewife, whose tremulous whispers were unheard beyond the ruffles on her muslin cap, can scold her husband or her boys in steam callopie soprano notes that resound a square away. The summers are a thing of beauty and a joy forever, with never a night when a blanket is not comfortable; and the cold of the sharpest winter is less piercing and trying than the average December or January weather of Arkansas and Virginia. It is a dry, crisp, sparkling cold that stimulates and invigorates. Hosts of people from the far south go, during much of the winter in the northernmost parts of Dakota, without overcoats or wraps of any kind."

Of the rapid growth and ultimate power and prosperity of Bismarck, there can be no question. The massive blocks and handsome residences already projected will cause the city to assume a metropolitan aspect, and the waterworks, sewerage system, street railway and electric light which will be added to our improvements this season will place our fair city away up among the leading metropolitan cities of the northwest. Our people are fully awake to the importance of pushing these improvements forward to speedy completion, and with their usual energy will be untiring in their march of progress until their every aim is accomplished. The progressive spirit of the business men of Bismarck has become proverbial as a spirit that knows no halt and will pause at no ordinary obstacle, and inside of a year that indomitable spirit will build up a city that will be the pride and envy of the territory. The capital city of Dakota is making rapid strides toward greatness and will continue her march until she assumes a power and population second to no city within the borders of the territory. So mote it be.

LAND hunters are coming in daily and scattering over the country in every direction. But little, if any, vacant land will be found in Burleigh county six months hence. The counties to the north and south of us are also receiving a large influx of people in search of homes. The silly stories of blizzards and destructive storms which have found publicity in the prejudiced eastern press have failed to intimidate the hardy settlers who are pouring in upon us, as the manufacturers of the glaring falsehoods so confidently hoped they would, and every train swells the army of sturdy yeomen who come among us in search of our valuable lands. After choosing locations these immigrants will send for their families and stock and will people our broad lands in a manner that will surprise even the most enthusiastic boomers.

It looks as if the Minneapolis board of trade made a mistake when it tabled without apology the proposition to endorse the Strait bill reducing public lands within railroad limits to $1.25 per acre. We would very much like to see the argument in print that was used in opposition to favorable action. It would be interesting reading through this section and might teach us something. Possibly our people don't know anything about the public land laws, or what is wisdom and what is stupidity. Probably they are not familiar with the legislation touching the price of government lands! May be the Strait bill is foreign matter?

The bill which has just passed the house requiring that the governor of a territory shall be a resident of the territory to which he is appointed for at least two years preceding his appointment, is a wise and just measure and should become a law. As Delegate Maginnis remarked, its object is to mitigate one of the evils of the most infamous system of colonial government the world had ever seen. The people of Dakota will watch the progress of the bill with the most intense interest.

SEEDING has not yet begun in the Red river valley, while in this locality it is almost completed. There can be no question that the Missouri slope possesses advantages which cannot be found elsewhere in the territory. Much new breaking is being done near Bismarck, while but a few stations east the frost yet holds the fort to such an extent that the plows cannot yet begin work.

The Canadian government is becoming very uneasy over the increasing exodus of people into the United States. Dakota is fast filling up with Manitobans who have become disgusted with the oppressive measures enforced in that province and who are seeking for a remedy by coming over into our land of the free.

The new fast mail arrangement is proving a great blessing to the people in this section. Chicago papers of yesterday morning can be read here before noon today, and letters come through much quicker than by the old arrangement.

An investigation of the charges against Gov. Murray, of Utah, proves them groundless.

A PROJECT is before congress to build a railroad to Alaska.

An exchange says: "If an editor omits anything, he is lazy. If he glosses over or smooths down rough points, he is bribed. If he calls things by their proper names, he is unfit for his position. If he does not furnish his readers jokes, he is a stupid wretch. If he does, he is a rattle head, lacking stability. If he condemns a wrong or a popular piece of demagogism, he is a good fellow, but lacks discretion. If he lets wrongs and injuries go unmentioned, he is a coward. If he exposes a public man or a selfish scheme, he does it to gratify spite, is the tool of a clique, or belongs to the 'outs.' If he indulges in personalities, he is a blackguard; or if he does not, his paper is flat and insipid. This formidable array of 'ifs' is generally applied to the profession, and is frequently considered by them to be true in every particular."

MAVILLE TRIBUNE: Dakota needs a governor who is a Dakotan. It is a poor policy of going out of the territory to make territorial appointments. Dakota just now has a candidate for the gubernatorial chair who is in every way fitted to fill the high position with honor and that gentleman's name is Col. C. A. Lounsberry, of Bismarck. He is a man of recognized ability and integrity, is thoroughly conversant with the needs of Dakota, and it is very evident that under these circumstances that Dakota should be honored by the appointment of one of her true sons to the governorship of the richest, grandest, most renowned territory the sun ever shone upon.

FARGO ARGUS: Theologians assign as one of the grounds of faith in immortality, the fact that there is a universal feeling that there is another existence. There is a general and pleasing conviction in North Dakota that a season of unprecedented prosperity and progress is beginning to open up for this section. This is not a mere Micawber readiness to accept good fortune, but a confidence based upon substantial grounds. The conditions for the growing of large crops of wheat and all the products of the country could not be more favorable than at present. The danger of delaying and disastrous overflow of water beds is substantially averted, and there is promise of an early seeding, which is almost a guarantee of a heavy crop of No. 1 hard. The air is alive with the rustle of the coming hosts and the assurance is ample that the energetic and enterprising are coming from all the states and all sections to find new homes in this goodly land. There is every reason to expect one of the most prosperous and satisfactory years known.

BARNES COUNTY RECORD: "Numerous of our Dakota newspapers are making a boom for Col. Lounsberry for the vacant gubernatorial chair. Now the Record is in with this movement heart and soul, and pledges its paste pot, shears and pencil to the good cause. Col. Lounsberry was among the very first of our early pioneers to foresee the great possibilities of Dakota. His penetrating mind grasped the situation at a glance, and his fertile genius soon found expression in the establishment of the first newspaper in North Dakota—the Bismarck TRIBUNE, in which for more than ten years his untiring energy has displayed itself for every good and perfect work of the great commonwealth of Dakota. During all these years no taint of social or political corruption has touched his garments, and he stands today with clean hands and pure heart, a representative man of Dakota, of whom all people are justly proud."

PIONEER PRESS: Col. Lounsberry is considerably nearer being governor of Dakota than he was. The house yesterday passed a bill requiring appointees for the governorship to come from residents of two years' standing. This, if approved by the senate, rules out a good many men who would take the place, and reduces the contest to proportions with which Col. Lounsberry's experience and taste qualify him to cope."

City Fathers.

Council met at the city hall Thursday eve, Present, his honor, the mayor, aldermen Bogue, Griffin, Slatery, Wakeman and Peterson.

The committee to which was referred the petition of Brader & Reheny, Wise & Goodkind and Eva Graham, asking for a rebate of license, for a fractional part of the year, asked for more time, which was granted.

The committee on claims, to which was referred the petition of A. T. Sherwood, asking a rebate of tax on personal property, reported the same back without recommendation. The rebate was disallowed.

The committee on streets, grades and additions, reported back the petition of Messrs. W. B. Bell, Bain Bros., E. W. Donahue, M. P. Slatery, S. A. Bushman, E. J. Claussen, L. N. Griffin and Hugh McGarvey, asking that a sidewalk be constructed at the crossing of Second and Rosser streets and on Second street north to Avenue B, with the recommendation that the request be granted. On motion it was ordered that the sidewalk be built and John P. Hoagland be instructed to see that the order is carried into effect.

The council adjourned until Saturday evening next, when a full attendance of councilmen is desired, as the business of the past year is to be settled and all outstanding bills will be paid preparatory to the incoming of the new administration, for whom the present mayor and council desire to leave a clear field.

Adjourned.

Youth, Beauty and Brilliance.

The Juvenile entertainment given in Union hall Thursday, under the auspices of the Ladies' Furnishing society of the Presbyterian church, was one of those bright, happy events which effectually banishes the blues and makes one prouder than ever of Young America. The little folks acted like stars, and the tiny sun beams of the stage acquitted themselves in a manner which might well arouse the envy of older novices and more mature talent. The entertainment was not only a success as a performance, but added a good round sum to the exchequer of the Bismarck Presbytery. The ladies, under whose skillful training the young artists reached so high a stage of perfection, deserve the praise of all. To particularize would be folly, but it is more than ordinary courtesy to the participants that the programme be given.

HERE is a specimen of the songs that some of the banjo players indulge in, but it does not refer to the Abbott kids:

"If you want to kiss her neatly,
Kiss her sweetly,
And completely
If you want to kiss her so as to kiss her nice,
Just pretend you're going to kiss her,
Make a dodge or two and miss her,
Then smack her on the kisser once or twice."

Governor's Guard Entertainment.

The Governor's Guard will give another entertainment at their armory—Union hall—next Friday evening, the 18th instant. It will be of a grand operatic, literary, and musical nature and will enlist the best of Bismarck's excellent talent. Mrs. W. H. Francis will favor the audience with a recitation, and those who have been fortunate enough to hear her read, will not miss this opportunity to again enjoy a literary feast. There will be a male quartette, a female quartette, and a quartette of mixed voices. This promises to be one of the finest musical entertainments ever given in Bismarck. A full chorus of well trained voices will render the "Legend of the Bells" opera and the "Chimes of Normandy." Rehearsals have been in progress for several weeks and next Friday evening the participants will be prepared to soothe the savage breast of the boomer and rustle with sweet melodious music. Instrumental selections are on the program, and with the recitations, readings and other refined features, the audience will be large and delighted. The Governor's Guard have earned a splendid reputation as amusement managers and their efforts for the success of the coming event will meet with a liberal patronage.

The Penitentiary.

The board of directors of the Dakota penitentiary met in room 4, Sheridan house, Thursday afternoon. Present: Messrs. A. W. Edwards, Alexander McKenzie, J. P. Dunn and J. A. McLean.

Mr. McLean, chairman of the building committee, reported that the walls of the building were in good order, not having been injured in the least by the frosts and snows of the winter. The artificial stone trimmings were found to be in excellent condition, and the work of Contractor Megan was highly commended.

An estimate of $5,000 was allowed Messrs. Megan & Kelly for material furnished and work done on the penitentiary, most of this amount being for iron and galvanized iron cornices which arrived during the winter.

Mr. Megan reported that he was pushing the carpenter work as rapidly as possible and would be ready for the brick as soon as it could be shipped from St. Paul.

The contract time for the enclosure of the building was extended to June 1st, 1884.

In Memoriam.

Commenting on the death of the great Sioux chief, Crow King, the Pioneer has this to say: "Crow King was an Uccapuy Sioux, and one of the most influential men of his nation. With a far larger hereditary following than Sitting Bull, and a record for bravery, diplomacy, and patriotism, to the full as good as the more nationally renowned chief, Crow King's loss will be as deeply felt among the Sioux as would that of any among the leaders, Gall perhaps, alone excepted. Crow King, it will be remembered, surrendered to Ilges, in January, 1881, after the fight on the Redwater and Gall's capture. He was sent to Fort Buford, and he and his band kept under guard for months, after which he was sent to Standing Rock, where he has since remained. He early saw the folly of further contests with the whites, and ever since his surrender his voice has been for peace. Tall, commanding, a winning speaker, and with the faculty of compelling belief in his sincerity, the deceased has been a favorite with Agent McLaughlin and with all the army officers of rank who knew him. He leaves a family considerable in size."

Particulars of the Wreck.

HALIFAX, April 5.—James A. Chipman, of Chipman Bros., agents for the White Cross line, returned this afternoon from Sambro, where he went last night to look after the survivors of wrecked steamer Daniel, Steinmann. The stormy weather of last night prevented him from attempting to reach Sambro island, but this morning at 5 o'clock he secured a pilot who would endeavor to reach the island. They took a pilot boat and dory with them, and when as near the island as they could risk the dory was launched, and with the assistance of the men on the island Chipman got ashore and saw Captain Schonhaven and obtained the following particulars of the wreck: The steamer had fine weather on the passage, with the exception of the last two days, which were very foggy, it being impossible to get any reckoning, and he thinks he must have overrun his time. At 10 p. m. on the 3d inst., he saw a light ahead which he first took for Chebeck light, the fog making it appear about five miles off, but it could not have been more than one. He discovered as he neared the light that it was Sambro, and before he had time to reverse the engines he was among the ledges northeast of the island. The steamer struck twice, and began filling fast. He then tried to run her ashore, but she sank in a few minutes. As soon as the ship struck the captain ordered the passengers all on deck, but they were all swept overboard and drowned by the heavy sea which swept over her. Two passengers and three of the crew got into a boat and managed to reach shore. The ship went down stern first. The captain, who was at his post on the bridge when she went down, threw off his boots and coat and took to forward rigging, but he sank faster than he could climb, so he was obliged to let himself float, and after considerable trouble caught the top-gallant yard and clung there with one of the passengers who managed to keep himself afloat until 5 a. m. Friday, when a boat put off from the island and rescued them. The captain will remain on the island to look after the wreck, and will not come up to the city until the first of the week. No bodies yet washed ashore.

The government steamer Newfield left here this morning for Sambro island. Running within a few hundred yards of the island, she cast anchor and launched a boat. The surviving passengers and seamen of the ill-fated steamer are Henry Schonhaven, Antwerp; Captain Eugene Mikala, Milford; Nicola Vinengo, Salanattali; John Madermann, Echenhofen; Otto Kranz, Witebendorf, near Schwarzborg; Frank Harenine Dussier, Antwerp; Ohas Van Louis, Antwerp; Peter Penges, Antwerp; Fritz Vick Stralsund, Prussia. Alex. Gilbois, brother of the lighthouse keeper who resides upon the island said: "The permanent residents upon the island are the keeper, his wife, three children, myself and another brother. I was in charge of the fog whistle from 6 to 9:30, having relieved the engineer at 6, at which time the whistle was in working order and sounding its notes of warning. I succeeded in keeping the whistle going till 8:45, when it cleared sufficiently to enable me to see distinctly Devil's island and Chebeck head. I stopped the whistle, the engineer at this time deeming it unnecessary to keep it going. Just before the engineer was relieved at 9:30, the lookout man sighted a steamer about a mile south by east of the light. He called me and I saw her. She was lying to, heading about east by northeast. She laid there about fifteen minutes after which she ran ahead about a mile, then started ahead again and went about 500 yards and again stopped. I think she then struck on Broad Beaver shoal, for she began to back. It was very dark, and I judged her motions by her lights. The fog whistle was started again at 9:45, though it was still clear. This was done to warn the ships from the rock. Twenty minutes after she began to back, and struck again on the rock. She then let go her anchor, but this did not seem to hold her, and she drifted and sank between 300 and 400 yards from the island. My brother and I attempted to put out to sea in a boat, but it was too small and we were forced to turn back. We then went up and turned the light upon the rocks and lit land fires at the shore to warn boats that might be about against the dangerous coasts. We also waved a blue light in the direction of the cove as a signal for such boats to keep within a safe distance from the island, and also as a guide to enable them to keep comparatively free from danger, so that they could land without risk. In the course of an hour a boat came in sight, which proved to be one of the boats of the steamer Cantanuary with seven men. We succeeded in guiding them into a place where they might land at daybreak. We observed two persons clinging to a forward rigging, and lowered a boat and pushed out to the wreck, rescued and landed the captain and one passenger. Throughout the day the fog continued too thick for us to signal, and the sea was too boisterous to permit landing."

A Hair and Fatal Fight.

CUMBERLAND, Md., April 5.—A prize fight came off at Hyndman, near the state line, at an early hour this morning, between a Hungarian named Nickvest, formerly of St. Louis, and a sport unknown, alleged to be a kinsman of the Boston pugilist. The fight was arranged a short time ago, and the party left Huntington, Pa., last night in coal cars, arriving at Hyndman at three this morning. During the trip a melee occurred on the train, in which several persons were injured. Arriving at Hyndman, a ring was pitched and the fight began. Fifty three rounds were fought, with the advantage about even, when a cry of foul raised a terrible riot, in which pistols and knives were freely used. The riot lasted some time. At the conclusion, three men, including Nickvest, were stretched on the ground dead, while several others were badly wounded. Nickvest was shot through the head. No arrests reported.

Walking Match at Duluth.

DULUTH, Minn., April 5.—A twenty-seven hour walking match between Hunt, a well known pedestrian, and McDonald, claiming to be the champion of Canada, ended at eleven o'clock to night. Hunt's score was 128 miles, and McDonald's 100 miles and twenty-two laps. McDonald was badly played out, leaving the track for a long time this afternoon. Hunt leaves here in about two weeks to walk to San Francisco, a distance of 5,200 miles.

Another Bluff Game.

YANKTON, D. T., April 5.—The register of deeds of Burleigh county is subpoenaed here before the United States grand jury and ordered to bring the record of his office. It is supposed to be for the purpose of obtaining proof of the transfer of Bismarck lots to Holmes of Grand Forks, for which capital commissioner Scott is said to have received three thousand dollars. A copy of the deed running from George P. Flannery to Holmes was produced and the check by which Holmes paid Scott for the lots. The deed was made out in St. Paul just before the commission left for Fargo to make the decision relative to the location of the capital and was turned over by Scott to at Bismarck, June 7th, 1883. It is rumored that several capital commissioners have been subpoenaed to testify.

Drowned Out.

BRAIDWOOD, Ill., April 5.—News reached here this noon of the flooding of an old shaft of the Albright mine of the Wilmington Coal company. Two hundred men were at work in the mine at the time, and all escaped but five Italian miners, who worked in a different part of the mine from the rest, and no one notified them of the break. They were not seen to come out. The break was discovered by a driver, who gave the alarm. The excitement is intense. Some of the men, perfectly wild, rushed pell mell over one another, turning into this road and out that to avoid low places, until they reached the cage, where the water was about four feet deep. On being raised to the top many were almost entirely exhausted.

String 'em Up.

CINCINNATI, April 5.—At Rising Sun, Ind., two masked men went to the house of John Smith, living in this vicinity, last night, and beat him insensible, then ransacked the house for a large sum of money which Smith was reported to have secreted. Failing to find the money they lit a fire and swung Smith who had recovered consciousness, back and forth over it, in the hope of making him disclose the hiding place of the treasure. This was continued until Smith became insensible, when the robbers departed, thinking him dead. The neighbors found Smith horribly beaten and burned. This morning a posse went in pursuit of the villains, and will lynch them if caught.

Forest Fire.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 5.—Reports of damage by fires continue. In Johnston county a fresh fire has broken out, destroying great quantities of timber, as well as several dwellings. The people are greatly alarmed and labor unceasingly night and day, combatting the flames. The woods are burning for a distance of sixty miles. A number of people are homeless. Nearly all the saw mills in some sections have been burned, as well as the churches and dwellings. Turpentine orchards of 500 and 1000 trees each have burned, almost ruining the owners. The fire is a heavy blow to the lumber industry of that section of the state.

The Jamestown Election.

JAMESTOWN, Dak., April 5.—The city election to-day was the most hotly contested of any ever held in this place. The main strife was on the mayoralty, the contest being between Thomas B. Lloyd, of the banking house of Loyds, bankers, and Hon. J. J. Flint, the present incumbent and resulting in the election of Lloyd by one hundred and five majority. Probate Judge Ott was re-elected city treasurer without opposition. The following were elected aldermen in their respective wards, numbered in the order named: E. S. Miller; John Dee; D. M. Kellner and Thomas S. Collins. The election though spirited, was not attended by any disorderly conduct.

New York Socialists.

NEW YORK, April 5.—An immense socialistic meeting gathered at the Cooper Institute to-night. Over 300 special policemen were stationed in the building. The Cincinnati riot was denounced. Some wild speeches were made but the meeting adjourned without a row.

Murderous Burglars.

DETROIT, Mich., April 5.—At Harrisville, Allegany county, three masked robbers last night entered the house of Carl Schulz and killed his son and beat his father, mother and daughter into a state of insensibility. They secured $3,000 of the German's gold.

Flood in Sioux City.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 5.—The Journal's Sioux City special says: The Missouri river at this point is now the highest known at this season for fourteen years, except in 1881. Boat transfers are made by the railroads, but trouble and expense are involved in the frequent necessity of changing landings by reason of washouts.

Knows Better Now.

ST. PAUL, April 5.—A boy named Chas. Gerber was fooling with a cartridge this afternoon, when it exploded, necessitating the amputation of two fingers and a thumb.

New Mail Routes.

S. mails from July 1st, 1884, to June 30, 1886, on the following new routes, which have recently been established, and will be in operation after June 30th, 1884:

From Bismarck to Ellendale, 164 miles, and back once a week. The stage will leave Bismarck Thursday at 6 o'clock a. m., going via Williamsport, Merrickourt and Keystone, arriving at Ellendale Saturday, 6 o'clock p. m. Leave Ellendale Monday, 6 a. m., and arrive at Bismarck Wednesday, 6 p. m. A bond of $2,000 is required with bid.

STEELE TO WASHBURN.

From Steele via Collinge, DeMorris and Moltke, to Washburn, seventy-five miles, and back once a week. The stage will leave Steele Thursday at 6 a. m. and arrive at Washburn Friday, 12 m. Leave Washburn Friday at 1 p. m., and arrive at Steele Saturday, 6 p. m. Bond of $500 required to accompany bid.

A NOTE received, at this office yesterday from Minnesota reads: "I am grieved to inform you of the death of my husband. He was reading your paper apparently in good health when I observed that he gasped and sank back in his chair, and when I sprang to his side he was dead. The doctors pronounce it heart disease." The ignorance of some doctors is really appalling!

PHILADELPHIA CALL: "Between you and me, Bismarck, old boy," remarked Minister Sargent confidentially, at an advanced stage of the dinner, "what do you think of Tom Ochiltree, anyway?" "Domochiltree?" queried the Chancellor, transferring an aged piece of lumber from one side of his mouth to the other, "I don't see acquainted with that dose schentlemans. Ist er ein American?"

BARNES IN SCOTLAND.

The Evangelist Coughing and Sneezing in a Yellow-Brown Fog.

Glasgow a Jostle of Spectres in a City of Ghosts.—But Glasgow Saints Are Lovely.

[Stanford (Ky.) Journal.]

Glasgow, Scotland, is a favorite resort in summer, and tourists flock to enjoy the invigorating climate. Of course there must be a compensating discomfort for all this, and one lots it in perfection in November. We were forewarned, and so in a certain measure forearmed; but I have only to say that the grim reality far exceeds our most imaginative expectations. We are just now in the second day of a fog, of the genuine London sort, technically known as "pea-soup" fog, from its general color and density. About the hue of a London brick, it is of brownish yellow—and taking hold of the throat and eyes with a rasping, pyroigneous effect, this impacted mixture of the breath of 50,000 chimneys and 700,000 pairs of lungs is held in solution by the raw, condensed moisture of a Scotch November. One must be on the spot to appreciate it.

The solitary pleasant feature of this particular fog is that it renders the almost illimitable design of "Wylie & Lochhead, Funeral Undertakers," etc., etc., invisible—the last written words being the portion that spans the full capacity of our spacious front window. In glaring golden letters and fully keeping up the impression produced by the issue at short intervals of the doleful hearse and mourning carriages described in a previous letter. By the way, this wealthy firm, ramifying in various kindred departments, in several parts of the city, were burned out in Buchanan street, last Saturday week, where their immense furniture establishment contributed in part to one of the most destructive fires that Glasgow has had for many years. After our service at Patrick, we all ran up by the train to the scene of devastation and from a favorable point witnessed the terrible sight.

But to return to our "pea-soup." We have kept our four gas burners in the sitting-room, up to their full capacity all day yesterday and to-day thus far. Every time the door opens the enemy rushes in, and in vain do we essay to shut the successive re-enforcements of filthiness out. So we cough and gasp and sneeze and weep, and bear it as best we can, after every fresh incursion. Outside, the rattlings of lumbering vehicles go by; the noise of wheels upon the paving stones, coming out of invisible depths, with nothing of drivers, horses or carriages seen. Out of the yellowish-brown abyss also proceed shouts, whistles, calls of various kinds exhortatory, obligatory and explanatory, connected with the invisible mass of humanity and horse-flesh enveloped in the smoky mist. The trams creep cautiously along the rails; carters lead their horses by the bit; all grope, grope as best they can to their several destinations. On the sidewalk people plunge along, bumping against each other, emerging in an instant from vacuity and disappearing in another instant into fog space.

A very jostle of spectres in a city of ghosts, is this great city of Glasgow now. If only we could afford it and there were not duties forbidding, we should make our way to the first railway station and ride until we had outstripped this heavy vapor's march and not return until it had succumbed to favoring winds and showers. George threatens to marry an organ-grinder, and persuade him to return to Italy. So much for our present atmospheric surroundings, of which I can not give too murky a description, seeing it all comes from the hateful "prince of the power of air"—"the ruler of the darkness of this age"—the hater of God and our tortured race. I am glad his reign is almost over now.

Even as I write the shadows are rolling away. Marie springs to the window curtains and throws them back with the glad cry, "Here comes the daylight; praise the Lord." And although the undertaker's sign again appears, and a funeral cortege, tempted by the returning daylight, issues promptly forth to do its useful but dreadful work, we rejoice, because "the light is sweet; and a pleasant thing it is for the eyes to behold the sun."

Only a fifteen-minute "lift" of our sooty envelope. The fog is back once more, gas relighted and curtains drawn again. A sign replaces the exultant shout and the undertaker's sign vanishes.

On Friday night the Patrick meeting closed in fullest blessing, with twenty-one for soul and thirteen anointed for healing. At the bible reading the subject was "Faith Healing," and fifteen more took Jesus for their physician. Altogether nearly seven hundred have confessed the dear Lord for the soul in the six weeks' service. About fifty anointed for healing. Praise the Lord.

One word in conclusion. Glasgow saints are lovely: thirteen drawing-rooms have welcomed us at the hospitable homes of different ones. More and more we think the Scotch are the Kentuckians of the British Isles. We have felt so happily at home ever since coming here. Such dear, receptive, generous people, rich and poor, we have seldom met. Of those who have attended the services with any regularity, hardly one has failed to receive glorious blessing and most been thoroughly convinced of the truth of "our gospel" in the main feature of it. Of the loving reception in social circles and charming families, I can only speak in terms of tenderness and most grateful affection. The Lord bless them every one!

"Comparisons are odious." I will not treat as rivals such glorious places as Highgate and Glasgow. I can only say no city can exceed Glasgow as a place for loving memory. Ever in Jesus. GEO. O. BARNES.

His Brother Had the Ice.

[The Judge.]

"Now," said drummer number one, as the train pulled out of Pittsburg, "I have a bottle of whisky. Let's sit down and have a real good time. I only wish we had sugar and ice; we could have some today."

"I've some sugar," said drummer number two, unstrapping his valise.

"And my brother has some ice," said drummer number three; "he's in the baggage car. I'll just step in and get some," and he did.

The toddy was brewed and reheated. The whisky bottle was a large one, the supply of sugar seemed inexhaustible, and drummer number three made as many visits to the baggage car as the occasion demanded.

However, just as they were all feeling good, and were about to compound a farewell drink, number three returned empty-handed. "Very sorry, boys," he remarked, "but the baggage man says if I take any more ice off my brother he won't keep."

Claims of a Vermont Town.

[Exchange.]

Middlebury, Vt., talks of putting up a marble slab in its new town hall with a record of the town's inventions. It claims the circular saw, the wool-picking machine, power looms, sawing marble by sand, water and soft iron, welding cast steel, and making door and window sash by water power.

WASHBURN

Is the county seat of McLean county, one of the finest for agriculture in the whole northwest. The county lies north of Burleigh on the Missouri river and is being rapidly peopled with live, energetic farmers.

WASHBURN

Is about 40 miles north of Bismarck and lies directly on the river bank at an elevation of seventy-five to one hundred feet. It has one of the finest steamboat landings on the river, and is the distributing point for lumber and supplies of all kinds for an area of country equal to that of an ordinary eastern state.

WASHBURN

Is destined to become to the Missouri slope what Grand Forks is to the Red River Valley, the most important town north of Bismarck on the Missouri river. Live men have taken hold of the affairs of the town and propose to build up a town of which North Dakota will be proud.

WASHBURN

already assuming the dignity of a metropolis. It has three United States Mail lines, two of which have their headquarters at that point. These lines are as follows: One from Bismarck to Fort Berthold, one from Washburn to Villard and one from Washburn to Conkling. Other lines will be established in the spring.

WASHBURN

Has the best Hotel accommodations in the Northwest. There are three hotels, one of which is not inferior to the best in Bismarck even. Among the other industries are the following:

A first-class Flouring mill, two General stores, two Carpenter shops, two Blacksmiths, one Wagon maker, Telegraph office and a $1,000 School building is being erected.

The finest Church in the northwest is also being built of the fine blue limestone found in this vicinity. The building is 30x55 and will be completed this season. Washburn has also a first-class brick yard, and a fine quality of lime is also burned at this point.

WASHBURN

Has also a weekly newspaper, THE TIMES, edited by W. R. Maze. The times is the official organ of the county and among the best conducted, enterprising newspapers in North Dakota.

WASHBURN

Has just been designated as the county seat of McLean county and a suitable Court House will be erected forthwith. McLean county has plenty of fuel. The river is skirted with a heavy growth of timber and in several places an excellent quality of lignite is found in unexhaustable quantities.

WASHBURN

Is the headquarters of the Washburn Coal company, in which several prominent Bismarck as well as Washburn people are interested. On all maps now being made by the North Pacific railroad, a branch line running from Bismarck northward through Washburn is indicated and there is little doubt but this road will be built during 1884. For permanent, sure and profitable investment, Washburn, therefore offers extraordinary inducements.

The town lies on a gentle slope towards the river and commands a view of the Missouri from ten to twelve miles in each direction. Although Washburn has just been made the County-Seat, the prices of Lots in the town will not, for the present, be changed, as it is believed by the owners of the townsite that this liberal policy of offering good inducements to those who will improve the property will result in the more speedy up-building of an important town. For information regarding Lots in the town of Washburn, the COUNTY-SEAT of McLean County, address, Redfield Journal: The Bismarck TRIBUNE is doubtless as good (if not the best) as any paper in Dakota. Its recent illustrated edition is the finest thing of the kind we have seen.

Charley Bentley has accepted a position in Frank Frisby's patent drug store and is now studying the mysteries of the profession. He has the necessary material for a good druggist and with the Dr.'s advice should be a success.

See "Vigilantes" at the Athenaeum tonight, by Whiteley's Hidden Hand company. It is one of the best dramas ever written, and abounds in exciting situations, bright dialogue and humor.

Whiteley's Hidden Hand company have scored a hit in our city, and are much mistaken if their houses during the balance of their stay are not crowded to the doors. "Vigilantes" or "A Woman's Devotion" to-night.

A. F. Andrews, publisher of the atlas and history of Dakota now in process of compilation, has written to Capt. Bennett, asking for a list of the officers of the Governor's guard or company A, First Dakota infantry, for publication in the atlas.

George Francis Train has returned his compliments to the chamber of commerce for the receipt of a copy of illustrated edition of the TRIBUNE. The envelope bears the autograph of the eccentric George, and in many ways shows the handwork of a freak of (human) nature.

Whiteley's Hidden Hand company, at the Athenaeum, commence their entertainment exactly at the time advertised, 8:15 o'clock, and those attending are particularly requested to come early and be seated before the curtain rises. Secure seats in advance at Frisby's drug store.

Miles City Journal: Capt. Wm. Harmon, of Bismarck, has just returned from Livingston, where he bought at sheriff's sale the stock of C. W. Savage & Sons, as the readers of the Journal have already noticed, and has turned the management of the store over to W. E. Savage and Clint Hedrick.

Dr. Archibald's new residence on Prospect Heights has been completed and is now ready for occupancy. The doctor can now boast of one of the finest residences in the city, and although he will not have the pleasure of living in it at present, being located at Fort Lincoln, his tenants will enjoy the blessings of a pleasantly located home.

Whiteley's Hidden Hand company appear in a very strong bill at the Athenaeum tonight, and this really excellent company should be greeted with a packed house. The beautiful drama, "Vigilantes," a faithful picture of early life in California and in the mines, will be given with a very strong cast and unusual care in stage mountings.

The plumbing and gasfitting establishment soon to be located here by Mr. Thomas Hennessey, of Fargo, will be a paying enterprise. There have already been several inquiries made at the TRIBUNE office concerning the business by parties who have orders to give. Mr. Hennessey will lose no time in preparing to meet the demands of the city.

Lisbon Clipper: The Bismarck TRIBUNE came to us last week profusely illustrated with ten elegant engravings of the chief buildings which adorn her streets, the most conspicuous of which is the Capitol building, which appears on the first page. Our capital city is a dandy without a doubt, and the TRIBUNE may justly point with a feeling of pride to its handsome structures.

Another Colony.

Rev. Mr. Lozier, of Cherokee, Iowa, arrived in the city yesterday, and is now casting about for a desirable spot of choice Dakota soil on which to locate a colony. Mr. Lozier is at the head of a movement to bring a large colony from his locality in the Hawkeye state, and secure a valuable and promising site for settlement in Dakota. He will remain sometime, and then return to report progress to his people.

Personals.

Mrs. W. D. Smith is seriously ill.

Mayor Raymond left for Fargo last evening.

G. C. Wrenhall, superintendent of bridges and buildings is in the city.

B. C. Gibbon, of Dawson, was in the city and made final proof on his homestead yesterday.

J. B. Simpson of Chicago, remained in the city during election to see how it is done in Dakota.

Chas. Marvin, proprietor of the Crescent Creamery, of Rochester, Minnesota, passed through the city last evening.

General passenger agent Chas. E. Fee, of the Northern Pacific, passed through the city yesterday en route to Livingston.

Mr. H. H. Gove of Mandan, is assisting in the work of the United States Land Office at this point. He is thorough and efficient.

R. C. White, of St. Louis, looked over the city last evening. He is interested in a large stock range in Montana, and has other interests in the northwest.

Deputy United States Surveyor Brown of Sioux City, reached Bismarck on yesterday morning's train and is now ready to receive applications for the survey of land in Williams and Mercer counties. He surveyed considerable land in this locality last season.

M. R. Sweet, of Chicago, arrived from the west yesterday morning. He stated that he had been as far west as Portland, but had found no country which presented as prosperous and healthy an appearance as Dakota. He complimented the capital city on its handsome buildings and activity, and proceeded on his eastern journey.

The Sims Excursion.

The excursion to Sims yesterday was one of the largest ever passing over the Northern Pacific. Eight coaches were filled at Bismarck and a couple at Mandan, making the total number of excursionists 784. The excursion was gotten up by Messrs. C. W. Thompson, general manager of the Northern Pacific Coal company, and F. W. McKinney, of the First National bank, Bismarck, who are jointly interested in real estate in the new town. To say that the excursion was a success is not to do the above named gentlemen justice. It was more than a success, eclipsing in magnitude the expectations of the most extravagant.

The train pulled out of Bismarck at 8:30, and arrived at Sims, forty miles west, at about 11 o'clock. The party then scattered in every direction to take in the town and visit the various industries, which have made the town so famous from one end of the line to the other. Excellent dinners were served at the new Oakes hotel, the hotel de Bugar, and other places, after which a large number of excursionists went down into the bowels of the earth and inspected the modus operandi of coal mining. Others visited the heights above the city on whose slightly brow a $5,000 brick school building has just been erected and a fine Presbyterian church edifice begun. It is here that Newall's addition begins. The addition lies on a beautiful plateau, overlooking the town and country for miles around, and probably the most desirable addition for residence purposes that can ever be made.

The town of Sims presents a very solid and pleasing appearance. Its buildings are mostly of brick which has given the town the name of the "Brick City." There is an evidence of enterprise on every hand. The holes have been dug for the purpose of setting out shade trees this spring on nearly all the streets, and the sound of the trowel and hammer can be heard in every direction. Sims has a future of no mean proportions. The prevailing sentiment yesterday among the excursionists was one of surprise at the growth and manifest resources of the town of which they had heard so much. The brick and terra cotta works were inspected curiously and the wonderful geological formation of the hills in the vicinity commented upon.

Upon arriving home, the band lead the procession down Fourth street to Main where they separated for their respective homes.

The Hidden Hand.

'Twas superbly and exquisitely immense! And the audience was the largest ever gathered in the capital city to witness a theatrical performance. As the bills announced, the audience enjoyed an evening of continuous laughter, with an occasional wave of sympathy for the rollicking, tempest tossed Capitola. Miss Fannie Francis, in the leading role of Capitola, carried her audience through all the changes, vicissitudes, misfortunes and adventures of her strange career with unflinching interest. As a newsboy she is a model—reckless, saucy and tricky; as an heiress she behaves with just enough indifference to appear natural, and as an adventuress she is fearless. In short, Miss Fannie Francis plays Capitola to perfection, and during the evening the audience went with her from Rag alley to the mansion of Maj. Ira Wardfield with mingled laughter and tears. Edward Wright has just enough of the gruff, rough major about him to appear as an inexorable old uncle, and his generosity and kindness came to the surface just at the proper time to prove that beneath the austere, dignified exterior of the southern officer there beats a warm and sympathizing heart. Robert T. Ferguson, "Wol" delighted all with his grotesque, droll manner and brought down the shingles in his specialties.

In fact the entire support of the Hidden Hand combination is the best on the western stage, and the immense audience gave evidence of the fact that the citizens of Bismarck recognize and are willing to support true merit.

The eminent pianiste, composer and artist, Miss Emma Clarke Brasie, received a hearty encore at the close of her rendition of the "Mocking Bird." As a pianiste she cannot be easily excelled.

Tonight Bartley Campbell's celebrated drama, "The Vigilantes" will be presented.

Want Information.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 6, 1894.

Editor TRIBUNE:—I have no doubt but that your paper is read by some of the parties who left Cleveland last year and settled between Bismarck and Glenullen, and I desire to speak through your columns, hoping that the residents of Glenullen will act upon my suggestions. There are hundreds here who would like to hear how they are getting along and what they think of the country; how to go there, what to take and what to leave behind. A general description of their summer and winter experiences out there would be of great interest to their friends and the citizens of this section. If some of them would write—the more the better; a dozen letters would be better than one, the Herald or Penny Press would publish them with pleasure. We wonder how they are getting along, and as we cannot expect a letter from each individual, if some one would write a letter to our papers, thousands would read it.

Yours Truly, A WOULD BE EMIGRANT.

The TRIBUNE can answer the writer by saying that the Cleveland colony located at Glenullen under the guidance of Isaac Richardson, is prospering, and the people who are among the most intelligent of those who have sought homes in Dakota, are, as far as heard from, pleased with their location. The TRIBUNE agrees with the correspondent that a letter from some of the Glenullen colonists to their Cleveland paper would set aside all dispute, and interest their friends.

The Human Sea.

The first low wash of waves, of which you may have read, has commenced to play around the boundaries of the capital city and the roaring surge of the human sea is rumbling in the ears of the resident. The camp fires gleam upon the prairies once more and the curling smoke of the emigrant's blaze climbs high into the clear, pure air of Dakota. In short, the hordes are upon us. With bag and baggage, fowl and swine, harrows, plows and reapers, the sturdy settlers pour into the Missouri valley and proceed to build homes amid the fields of plenty and beneath as bright a sky as ever smiled on man. Yesterday morning ten teams were loaded with emigrant movables, provisions, farm implements and utensils, and with crack of whip and hearty joke, the builders of fortunes and cities started south to secure homes. A number of them were bound for the southern part of Burleigh county, while others had their liberty-bird eyes on the county of Emmons. Sheriff Satterlund, of McLean county, informs the TRIBUNE that settlers are pouring into his county at a rate almost incredible and that nearly every acre of land in the county will be taken by actual and permanent settlers before the season closes. Burleigh county is receiving her just proportion of the emigration and with the rapid settlement of the country Bismarck must flourish.

Brick and Terra Cotta Works.

H. M. King, of King & Jackson, the firm spoken of in relation to the new brick and terra cotta works to be located east of the city, is now in the city, arranging for the establishment of large brick yards. Grading will be commenced Monday, and the machinery, which is now on the road, will soon be ready for operation. Messrs. King & Jackson are practical men in the business, have a large amount of capital to operate with, and their foremen and employees among the best brick and terra cotta mechanics in the country. This promises to be one of the most important enterprises of which the capital city may boast. A vein of coal exists in the land, which is owned by Capt. O. W. Bennett, and the question of fuel for burning the brick is therefore settled. Much credit is due Capt. Bennett for so successfully experimenting with the fine clay on his land. In a few months the brick and terra cotta works of King & Jackson will rank among the leading enterprises of the Missouri valley metropolis.

Snow in Ohio.

The following is from Wednesday's Chicago Tribune:

DAYTON, O., April 8.—[Special].—The heaviest snow storm ever known in the history of this city which began at an early hour this morning prevails at this writing. The amount of snowfall equals the heaviest storm of winter, and it has resolved into an unprecedented blizzard. The atmosphere also has changed to cold, and altogether it is the most remarkable weather flop on record.

To Ohio people, such a storm is nothing. The serene spirits of Major Bickham of the Dayton Journal and his followers are disturbed only when reports like the above come from Dakota.

Interesting to Hunters.

The sportsmen of Bismarck are having a regular old time "picnic" now—a days bringing down the game. Ducks and geese abound in large numbers, and they are perfectly willing to die for their country's good. Gentlemen coming from the east to put in a few weeks' genuine enjoyment can do no better than to stop at Bismarck and go out on a hunt. The lakes and small streams in this vicinity are reported to be covered with ducks, and geese are flying in large flocks. The tables of the city's hotels and restaurants are now supplied with the tender game.

Bismarck Mailing Hours.

It will be of interest to the citizens of Bismarck to know the hours of the arrival and departure of mails. Through the courtesy of Chief Clerk Hughes, of the postoffice, the following facts have been received:

Mandan pouch arrives 9:30 a. m.
Eastern mail arrives 11:45 a. m.
Western mail arrives 3:10 p. m.
Pouched mail from east, 6:30 p. m.
Pouched mail for Mepoken, Steele, Jamestown, Fargo, Minneapolis, St. Paul and all points east of St. Paul closes at 9 a. m.
Western mail closes at 11:30 a. m.
Eastern mail closes at 4:45 p. m.
Mandan pouch closes at 6 p. m.
Postoffice will be closed at 7:30 p. m., and opened at 8 a. m.

A Competent Man.

One of the most competent men in the city of Bismarck is Mr. C. F. Davis, who for the past year has been chief clerk of the United States land office at this point. Yesterday he tendered his resignation and is about to open an office for the transaction of land office business in room 20 First National bank block. Those having business at the land office, or desiring locations in the Missouri slope, cannot do better than to seek advice of Mr. Davis. During his location in Bismarck he has proven to be a thoroughly competent and reliable gentleman. He has a vast amount of valuable information to impart to the settler and will be found ready and willing to talk "land" at any and all times.

Business Meeting.

There will be a meeting of the business committee of the Garfield Light Guard at the Merchants Hotel this evening, at 8 o'clock sharp. A full attendance is earnestly requested.

By order of the Chairman.

The dependence of man upon wheat bread for his best nourishment makes it important that the bread be light, palatable and easy of digestion. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is the best means we have for securing those ends. A nation of housekeepers have been using it for years and found it always the same, pure and healthful.

The New Land Office.

The officers and clerks of the Bismarck land office are now permanently and cozily located in their elegant new quarters in the First National bank block. A TRIBUNE scribe took a peep into the new office yesterday, and found the gentlemanly occupants of the same busily engaged in the work of distributing happiness among the emigrants and settlers of the Missouri slope. The new land office is the finest in the northwest. Situated as it is at the intersection of four hallways, with stairways leading to the same on either side of the building, the means of ingress and egress are almost perfect.

Register Bea's location in the office is at the southwest corner at the head of the east stairway and two large sliding windows expose his physiognomical reservation to the gaze of the wicked world, as well as the home seekers and town site evangelists.

Receiver Francis has a room to himself, which is furnished in the most elaborate style. Aside from a mammoth safe, several large desks and cabinets, the room is adorned with numerous pictures of the great men of the past and present. This room is connected with the register's office by a door and large sliding window.

The offices are well lighted, having four large windows, and their general finish is beyond criticism. The ceilings and walls are white, while the casings and wood trimmings are painted in two shades of olive. In the large room which is graced by Register Bea, are the desks of Chief Clerk Davis and Mr. Schieman. One great benefit to be derived from the removal is the impossibility of a jam or crowding in the lobby. The halls are long and wide, and as soon as the settler makes entry he moves on down the hall to the receiver's room where the receipt is issued. Steam heaters furnish a comfortable temperature, and all in all the offices are superb.

Much credit is due the officials of the land office for this great improvement in the public accommodations, as it was done at their personal expense, and it may be further stated that the furniture and fixtures of the office belong to them. When O. W. Holcomb, inspector of land offices, was here he was asked what improvement he could suggest in the management of the Bismarck office. He said: "I have no suggestions to make. It is a model."

Bad For Washburn.

The people of Washburn and McLean county as well as all Bismarckians and residents of Burleigh county will regret to learn that the daily mail asked for by the Washburnites has been refused by the postmaster general. A petition signed by hundreds of the citizens of Burleigh and McLean counties was sent to Washington with the request that the daily mail be established and the following reply was received at the Bismarck postoffice yesterday:

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT:
Office of the 2d Assistant P. M. Gen'l, Washington, D. C. March 31, 1894.—Sir: You are informed that the business done on route 85,189—Bismarck to Fort Berthold, will not justify a further expenditure of $3,271.93 per annum for transportation, and therefore the postmaster general declines making the order for six times a week service which is asked for. Please notify the postmasters interested.

Very Respectfully, H. D. LYMAN,
2d. Asst. Postmaster General.

Shiloh's vitalizer is what you need for constipation, loss of appetite, dizziness and all symptoms of dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Frank Frisby.

A High Compliment.

Of the numerous applications for copies of the illustrated edition of the TRIBUNE, which have been received from the east, the most flattering and complimentary comes from Mr. W.

R. Mack of Boston, Mass. Mr. Mack wrote a letter to the TRIBUNE, but fearing it might not reach its destination in due time, or would not receive immediate attention, sent the following telegram, from Boston at an expense of not less than one dollar:

EDITORS TRIBUNE: Send ten copies of the illustrated edition of the TRIBUNE immediately. See letter sent.

Mr. Mack has been in Dakota, has some interests in this section, and knows how to appreciate a good fair representation of the territory and its capital city.

Who is the Man?

The following from the Williamsport (Pa.) Breakfast Table will be read with interest in Bismarck:

"A wealthy Scandinavian from Bismarck, Dak., arrived in St. Paul, Minn., last week and said he wanted a wife. At the depot he met for the first time a man to whom he offered $200 if he would find him a wife on short notice. The man took him to his own house and introduced him to his daughter. The bargain was quickly made, and, as a guarantee of good faith, the man from Dakota transferred $40,000 worth of Bismarck property to his intended bride. The marriage took place a few days later. Now this is a method that ought to be more generally employed. It double discounts the long and tedious angling of young ladies and gentlemen for cash, under the very transparent sentiment of pretense love, and is a decided improvement upon the wire-pullings of multitudes of anxious peeps and mammas. The Minnesota idea is quick and effective. Why should it not be given a general trial?"

Prosperity's Centrifugal.

The centrifugal point in all new countries around which the supporters of prosperity hover is the land office, and the prospects of the country can be accurately estimated from a knowledge of the condition of affairs in the office. The Bismarck land office is a scene of stir and hurry and its business is increasing daily. Organizers and managers of colonies reach the city nearly every day and proceed to the landoffice to secure land for the advancing communities. Yesterday there were 240,000 acres of land listed at this office, and plats and descriptions from the surveyor general for the following townships were filed:

Townships 133 and 134 north, range 67 west; townships 133 and 134, range 68; townships 133, 134 and 135, range 69; townships 133, 134, 135 and 136, range 70.

The Big Brewery.

Mr. J. Hirsch, College Point Brewery, L. I., N. Y., writes that he employs a large number of horses and hands, and having tried St. Jacobs Oil the great pain cure, for rheumatism, aches and pains of his men, and for galls, splints, thrush, wind-galls and other affections of his horses, finds it a superior to all remedies, and would not do without it.

Shiloh's cough and consumption cure is sold by Frank Frisby on a guarantee. It cures consumption.
